FORGED BANK NOTES.

CHARGE AGAINST CHINESE WOMAN.

In the second court at the Criminal
Sessions this morning, before the Puisne
Judge, Mr. Justice Kemp, a woman named Chan So was charged with being in possession of and uttering forged Kwangtung
banknotes; she was also charged with returning to the Colony from banishment.
The Crown Solicitor, Mr. P. M. Hodgson, prosecuted, prisoner being undefended.
The jury consisted of Messrs J. M. de Roche, foreman; F. X. dos C. Ferreira,
F. J. K. van Wall, L. P. Corbett, A. Nicol, E. F. G. Orchard, and J. M. Britton.
The Crown Solicitor, addressing the jury, said it was illegal in this colony for anybody to be in possession of a forged document purporting to be a banknote of a foreign country, and it was also illegal to utter such notes with intent to sell them or dispose of them in any other way. The accused on September 14 was found in possession of certain forged Kwangtung banknotes, and the evidence showed also that she sold a number of them to another woman. The original money paid for these notes went through the hands of three or four women before it reached the accused, and was marked money given these women by the authorities; eventually it was found in the possession of the accused. The notes were of $5 denomination and were sold for fourteen cents each, which was proof, he submitted that they were forged notes.
Prisoner was found not guilty and was accordingly discharged.

AN APOLOGY FROM AMERICA.

Ambassador Openly Rebuked.

It is not often, writes the New York
Tribune, that the United States Government finds itself in the position of having to make apologies to Great Britain, but this has just happened owing to an amusing case of discretion on the part of Mr. H. L. Wilson, who until recently filled the position of United States Ambassador to Mexico, and who has now been publicly rebuked by President Wilson for making statements calculated to offend a friendly Power, whilst in expression of regret has, through the United States Ambassador, been made to Sir Edward Grey, that such an impropriety should have been committed by a diplomatic official.

Mr. Wilson was in Mexico City during the sanguinary scenes that terminated in the downfall and murder of President Madero and the succession to power of General Huerta. Rightly or wrongly, Mr. Wilson thought the interests of the United States would be best served by recognition of the Huerta regime.

Washington, however, has hitherto declined to take this step, and the fact that other Powers, including Great Britain,
have recognised Huerta as provisional President of Mexico, has been somewhat quietly commented on in the New York Press.

To these comments Ruter's Agency
furnished a reply, explaining the reasons which had actuated Great Britain in taking the step, saying—

"It was done on the advice of the British Minister as being likely to assist the restoration of order, an important consideration in view of the large British interests involved. The French and German Governments, it is pointed out,
also recognised General Huerta after a reception by him of the whole Diplomatic Body, at which a congratulatory speech was made on their behalf by the United States Ambassador."

THE OFFENDING STATEMENT.

Pasting on the paragraph quoted,
Mr. Wilson appears to have resented the reference to himself, and to have expressed his views in language which has drawn upon him the President's censure.

"This statement," said Mr. Wilson,
"really emanated from the British Foreign Office it is at variance with its indignity and with the character which it has maintained before the world for two centuries. I doubt the genuineness of the statement, as it is a pure subterfuge unworthy of the British Foreign Office."

The Government of Great Britain was not in the slightest degree affected by the so-called congratulatory speech made by me on behalf of the Diplomatic Corps.

This address was not drawn up by me, but by the Spanish and British Ministers, at the request of the entire resident Diplomatic Corps. I purposely declined any responsibility for the wording, and in the form in which it finally appeared it was the expression of the views of the entire Diplomatic Corps, representing the Government which had none of them at that time recognised the Provisional Government. For more than a month after this recognition the British Government maintained an attitude of hostility towards the Government of General Huerta, and when this final recognition was accorded it came as the result of a complete reversal of policy."

PRESIDENT'S REPRIMAND.

Indignation and amazement were felt
at the President Wilson and Mr. W. J.
Bryan, Secretary of State. The first thing to be done was to ascertain who
the Ruter's Agency statement represented the views of the Government, and Mr. Page, the American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, was requested to ascertain this. The reply was in the affirmative, and following lengthy conferences between the President and Mr. Bryan, and between Mr. Bryan and the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, it was decided to reprimand Mr. H. L. Wilson for his in-warrantable language. The Ambassador

BUSINESS GIRL AS WIFE.

HER ADVANTAGES OVER THE ONE TRAINED AT HOME.

The necessity of inculcating business-like habits and methods in girls, who are destined to earn their own livelihoods or are possessed of independent means raises an interesting question as to who makes the best wife—the girl whose mind has been trained along practical lines or the girl who enters matrimony prepared to "muddle through" as she can.

A woman who for many years was manageress at a college of housecraft unhesitatingly gave the palm to the business-like girl, and in particular to one who had had a genuine experience in business. "Such a girl," she said, "will have learnt, as far as a woman can learn,
the lesson that things must be done in time and in a methodical way. She will have learnt to subordinate her natural inclination to chatter of the things of the moment, and that is a lesson in which women brought up strictly at home never learn. Then again, the woman who has been in business has, of necessity, to meet plenty of people. She does not often come into contact with characters antagonistic to her own and acquires a certain disposition of philosophy, which makes her less inclined to be offended; but, on the other hand, the inevitable little quarrels and encroachments which are bound to occur even in the best of couples."

Then there is the financial aspect.
Having had control of her own money, she has learnt that a certain sum will only go a certain distance—in other words, the value of money. The value of the knowledge gained by personal experience in handling her own money is very important to a woman. When she discovers that three pounds cannot by any means pay for ten pounds' worth of goods, she will apply the knowledge instinctively when it comes to providing dinner and children's clothes."

On the other side of the account there may be a little tendency towards extravagance, diffidence, and love of display,
but after all, a reasonable intelligent woman will keep these propensities in check, while being immune at home and deprived of all means of guarantee that a girl will be a prudent and unselfish wife.
Some of them are the worst of thriftless
wives, and their homes are uncomfortable in consequence. Such as take of things can usually be traced to the recklessness and extravagance of the mistress who before her marriage, probably never knew what it was to have half-a-crown to dispose of on her own account."

SINGAPORE CHAMPIONSHIP TENNIS.

A Splendid Struggle.

SALZMANN DEFEATS THE HONOUR.

The challenge round in the S.C.C. lawn tennis tournament championship, played on the Esplanade last evening, was the "Strait Times" of the 11th inst., before a large crowd which included His Excellency the Governor, Mr. Arthur Young, C.M.G., Mr. Evelyn Young, Rear-Admiral R. H. Feirrie, C.B., M.V.O., Major General T. T. St. John, C.B., Mrs. Stephen, Hon. C. I. Carver, Mrs. Carver, and Colonel White, provided an exhibition of sensational play, the like of which, surely, it would be difficult to find in the history of the S.C.C. The wedding out process completed, it was apparent that the challenge round would provide a game well worth the watching. For Salzmann showed excellent form which he had fostered in the many thought Moding would have to look to his heels. Still, on the other hand, there was quite a number who considered that the champion was good enough to repeat his success of the Spring tournament, and when the match was on to the court last evening it would be hard to say upon whom rested the popular fancy.

But if that was the case prior to the start the supporters of Salzmann very quickly had their confidence rudely shaken. Moding opened in a way which was like a flash and he was soon in the lead. He hit hard and he hit accurately. His placing was above reproach and his judgment cool and convincing. All this meant trouble for Salzmann, who, even at this stage, found it necessary to run for his life every ball, and on the second time he was captured three games without any reply. Salzmann up to now had had very little opportunity of settling down to his game, but at this point he began to find his feet and so was enabled to take two games. The effort, however, had him on the run for Moding continued to play right up to the top of his form and ran out 6-3.

EXCITEMENT GROWING.

The second set opened in just the same way, although Salzmann was playing with more assurance. Moding persevered with his formidable drives, it seemed to make no difference how often Salzmann played to his hands and he was soon in the lead. About this time Salzmann earned the appreciation of the crowd for refusing to benefit through an error on the part of the referee. Fault was called on one of Moding's serves which happened to be quite right, and on the second time Salzmann deliberately placed the ball in the net. It was at this stage that a change came over the game. The spectators and Salzmann realised it too, and played to win for all that was in them, and with patience when necessary. He set about breaking up his opponent's game. Moding lost the fourth game, became a trifle more ineffectual in the fifth and at last, as well and, despite an effort, failed to prevent his man for the first time drawing level.

Excitement now ran very high. Salzmann was as untroubled as at the start, but Moding looked rather the worse for wear, in fact when he faced his opponent in the seventh game of the set he looked thoroughly done up. Playing now with confidence and vigour Salzmann set about making his man run. First in this corner and then in that, closer to the net and right on the back line he sent the ball, and all the while Moding was becoming weaker.

REMARKABLE PLAY.

What followed was surely remarkable in a championship match. Improving every hour, Salzmann coolly proceeded to take eleven games in succession. The champion. The second set he claimed at 6-3, and right away on to the fifth game in the last set he played without effectual response from his opponent. Then Moding realised that now if ever he would have to make an effort, and with something of his old dash he won the next game. There was more power in his shots just at this stage, although they were not the drives that won him his first set, just as he was not the player that made them. He seemed to have lost his only stamina but his game. The final rally of the match was one of the best of the afternoon. Twelve or fifteen times the ball travelled over the net when Salzmann only required one more point, backwards and forwards it went until an opportunity presented itself, Salzmann took it, and with it the championship. The sets were 6-3, 6-3, 6-1.

There was tea on the lawn afterwards, prior to the distribution of prizes. The members of the club had announced their services at home to the friends and consequently the evening was quite a large assembly. After tea Lady Evelyn presented the prizes to the winners of the various tournament trophies, the Hon. C. I. Carver, President of the S.C.C., thanking her for the service so kindly performed. Commenting upon the tournament Mr. Carver remarked that the entries had increased as they were always increasing year by year, necessitating more courts being laid out, but despite that fact they had succeeded in getting through so that there should be no interference with the festivities of next week. Once again he had to congratulate Mr. Salzmann upon winning the championship. It was, he noticed, in 97 that his name was last engraved upon the tablet as the winner and it was to be hoped that six months hence Salzmann's name would be fought with the name of Salzmann, and that the one they had just witnessed.

It is almost certain, according to what Mr. Carver then proceeded to say, that some cricket interstate tennis will be seen in Singapore shortly. He mentioned that they had received an intimation that two expert players in one part of the F.M.S. were anxious to meet the best that Singapore could produce in singles and doubles and it was to be sincerely hoped that after the race, arrangements would be made to test their strength against some of the F.M.S. players. Darkness had very nearly fallen by the time the ceremony was ended, the assembly dispersing after a call for three cheers for Lady Evelyn Young for her hearty taken up.

SWIMMING RECORD BEATEN.

J. G. Hatfield, of Middleborough, the brilliant young swimmer, recently at the Middleborough Corporation Baths, made a successful attempt to break the world's 300 yards swimming record of 8 min. 30 sec., made by F. Beaupre, of Australia, at Exeter in August, 1910. He allowed O. W. Loader, of Middleborough, 30 sec. start, which is equal to 30 yards, and, swimming well throughout, just beat Loader in 8 min. 28 sec., thus lowering the world's record by 8 sec.

CHRIST'S KINGDOM.

In these days when so much is said about acknowledging "governmentally," the Lord Jesus Christ as the ruler of nations, it would be well to recall our Saviour's own words when brought before the Roman governor, Pilate. "Jesus answered, My kingdom is not of this world; if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews; but now is my kingdom not from hence." John 18:36. As at the present time, so when Christ walked among men, well meaning but misguided zealots were anxious to "take him by force to make him a king." While Christ is "King of Kings and Lord of Lords" throughout the universe, we are ever to remember that he has once and for all disclaimed earthly kingship in these words, "My kingdom is not of this world." And all the laws that have been enacted to establish Christianity and all the wars and battles that have been waged in the name of the cross have been in contravention of this principle laid down by the Prince of Peace. He would establish a kingdom in the heart.

CHRIST'S KINGDOM.

In these days when so much is said about acknowledging "governmentally," the Lord Jesus Christ as the ruler of nations, it would be well to recall our Saviour's own words when brought before the Roman governor, Pilate. "Jesus answered, My kingdom is not of this world; if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews; but now is my kingdom not from hence." John 18:36. As at the present time, so when Christ walked among men, well meaning but misguided zealots were anxious to "take him by force to make him a king." While Christ is "King of Kings and Lord of Lords" throughout the universe, we are ever to remember that he has once and for all disclaimed earthly kingship in these words, "My kingdom is not of this world." And all the laws that have been enacted to establish Christianity and all the wars and battles that have been waged in the name of the cross have been in contravention of this principle laid down by the Prince of Peace. He would establish a kingdom in the heart of every man, but in so doing he uses love, not force. He never compels the conscience and what he himself will not do, he has never delegated to earthly powers to do for him.

CHRISTIANITY AND THE ROMAN EMPIRE.

Let us now turn to the experience of Christianity as witnessed by the voice of history. In the days of Christ and the disciples, the religion they taught was in favour and they were frequently subjected to ridicule, persecution and sometimes death. But with the passing of three centuries the situation is wholly changed: the church becomes popular; Christianity gradually becomes the established faith, various edicts and laws are made supporting the gospel church and its adherents; paganism and its adherents are placed in a disadvantage. As a result large numbers embraced the Christian faith, not because they had experienced a change of heart, but because of the temporal advantages they might thus secure. See Neander's History of the Christian Religion and Church, Vol. II, Sec. III, part 1. Note this carefully: Religion by law usually makes a mass of hypocrites; it never makes true Christians.

Other difficulties soon arose. Barely a decade had passed from the time Christianity was taken into imperial favour before the famous "Trinitarian Controversy" arose, which divided the church into two great hostile camps. On the one side was Bishop Alexander and his followers, who claimed that they constituted the original church. On the other, the presbyter, Arius, and his adherents, asserted that only their exposition of the Trinity bore the stamp of Christianity.

Each party sought in every way to win the government to its side. At first Alexander's creed was declared to be "Christianity" by the empire and all dissenters were exile or put to death; while a quarter of a century later, Arianism (the creed of Arius) was made orthodox by Emperor Constantine, and became "Christianity." For two hundred years this controversy continued, being ever marked by persecution and bloodshed and was at length disposed of by a war exterminating the Arian party.

The various steps in the Roman Empire's relation with Christianity may be summarized as follows: First, Christianity recognized; second, the church established.

But mortals are often dull students. With this accumulated testimony of history before them, is it not most singular that some Americans still lament over the fact that the government of the United States is not founded on the Christian religion and that the Constitution of that country makes no mention of God, of Christ, or of the Bible? Because of this so-called "atheistic error" in the Constitution of the United States, some would not recommend it to China as a document to be copied. While the writer is a firm believer in the Christian Religion, he feels free to assert that if there is in the fundamental law of America one feature more, worthy of imitation than others, it is the principle of complete separation of church and state.

The "Nasty flat taste in the mouth on waking in the morning is due to an excessive development of bacteria in the mouth during sleep. The infallible antidote is rinsing the mouth with Odoel before retiring to rest.

Of all Chemists and Druggists.

lished by Royal Edict; third, empire compelled to decide which of two rival creeds constituted Christianity; fourth, the nation plunged into two hundred years of persecution and war—one of the principal causes of the downfall of the Empire. Such is the history of the first "Christian nation." Should we follow in her trail?

SPAIN AND CATHOLICISM.

Now the above is not an isolated example. Of other cases you might cite, we will give but one. Four centuries ago no country was richer or stronger than proud Spain; her merchant fleets were on every sea; and her colonial possessions girdled the earth. She was a "Christian nation" and the pressure brought to bear upon her by the Catholic Church led her to set up the Inquisition. By this horrible engine of oppression the Moors, Jews, and Protestants—the very flower of her inhabitants—were either put to death by the most heartless cruelties or driven from her shores.

As a natural result of this policy, Spain's vineyards were left uncultivated, her industries fell into decay; her resources diminished and her colonial possessions slipped from her grasp: to-day with glory and prestige departed, she is not a shadow of her former self—a warning to any who would cling to the "Christian nation" theory of government.

Now, the Roman Catholic Church asserts that she never persecuted. According to its own accounts, the Church only tried cases on charges of heresy and then turned the accused over to the civil authorities to be dealt with in accordance with statute law. Further, it is difficult for any person or organization to see that his own acts constitute persecution. Said Pope Pius in A.D. 558: "Be not alarmed at the idle talk of some, crying out against persecution, and reproaching the church, as if she delighted in cruelty, when she punishes evil with wholesome severities, or procures the salvation of souls. He alone persecutes who forces to evil. But to restrain men from doing evil, or to punish those who have done it, is not persecution, or cruelty, but love of mankind."—Bower's History of the Popes, Pius, A.D. 558.

In either case, all that was undertaken was simply to enforce the laws. If Protestants had obeyed the laws they would never have been persecuted. And if religion be properly a matter of state and rightfully a subject of legislation, then there never was and never could be such a thing as persecution for conscience's sake by any organized government.

But history records persecution upon persecution, with millions of martyrs' graves as witnesses and where shall we place the blame? Well answer: The blame rests with the system of government. It was not right to obey the laws. The laws were wrong. To obey the laws was to reject God, to deny Christ and to forfeit the hope of eternal life. And so, for the love of their divine Master, men, women and even weak girls suffered the most inhuman tortures. Authentic records tell of eyes being scooped from their sockets; of victims being bound in chains of red hot iron; of others being slowly roasted over the flames and writhing for hours in their agonies and of other tortures being prolonged and varied throughout several days. All this was endured that people in succeeding generations might be free-free to follow their own conscience in the matter of worship. It was endured in defence of "the divine principle that, with religion, civil government can of right have nothing to do."

But mortals are often dull students. With this accumulated testimony of history before them, is it not most singular that some Americans still lament over the fact that the government of the United States is not founded on the Christian religion and that the Constitution of that country makes no mention of God, of Christ, or of the Bible? Because of this so-called "atheistic error" in the Constitution of the United States, some would not recommend it to China as a document to be copied. While the writer is a firm believer in the Christian Religion, he feels free to assert that if there is in the fundamental law of America one feature more, worthy of imitation than others, it is the principle of complete separation of church and state.

mooted this scheme for Hongkong, some six or seven years ago, there came forward a band of patriots who denounced it in no very measured terms. Such an undertaking was condemned as retrogressive, and unworthy of those who were seeking to throw off Manchu yoke, for apart from other considerations, Confucius was a staunch supporter of an unlimited monarchy, and all his teaching, as well as his influence, was on the side of those who sought still to retain all power in the hands of the one against the modern trend which would place power and decision in the hands of the many. In those newspaper articles, we remember that Confucianism was discussed with what appeared to be a broad intelligence and clear insight into the character of the Sage's status and work. These articles no one attempted to controvert at the time, and apparently they were effective for the scheme fell through, and nothing more was heard of them till recently, when the leaders of the people in China itself are supporting the movement, desiring to establish Confucianism as the national religion. Opinions appear to have changed, however, for up till the present, as far as we are aware, no one has ventured to attack the more recent proposal to do honour to the Sage.

When we look closely at the movement we see how confused are the views of those who are advocating the scheme, if we are to take "religion" in anything like the sense the word connotes in the West. We take for example the three purposes which the originators of the scheme have before them, and we see clearly enough what is meant by "religion" from their point of view. "There shall be within the buildings a holy hall, which shall be open to all those who preach the doctrine, and all who seek education." Of course no one with the slight conception of what a "holy hall" should be could take exception to this. But we glance on further, and we see "that there shall also be connected therewith a place for the holding of the meetings of the Chamber of Commerce, and therein all matters pertaining thereto shall be discussed." Nor does this exhaust all the uses to which the building shall be placed. "Further connected therewith shall be certain rooms for the use of Chinese who shall visit the Colony either from the mainland or from Settlements where the Chinese have gone."

It will be seen, therefore, that the project of the promoters is conceived along the lines of the "Institutional Church" at home, only pure worship seems to be overlooked, though we are that some provision is to be made for "court music" whatever that may be. In this article, however, we are not concerned with criticising the scheme, so much as in pointing out that during the last five or six years there has come over Chinese thought, in regard to the worship of Confucius, a distinct change, and it is a part of the deeper or wider change that has modified the Chinese outlook in many regards. Whether this change is for the advantage of the nation or otherwise we need not now say to consider, and perhaps we are at present unable to determine its significance. We content ourselves with pointing out the fact. Possibly the recent change of mind towards everything old was ill-considered and open to much criticism; the swing of the pendulum has swiftly taken place, in regard to Confucianism, the swing has taken much public opinion backwards farther than it has been for many years. It may not be amiss to add that the "holy hall" is estimated to cost five hundred thousand dollars, and a specified time has been allowed for the collection of these necessary funds. If at the end of the time stated there should be any serious deficiency, then it was arranged at the meeting that the subscriptions should be paid back to the original donors. If, however, there is any real enthusiasm amongst the Chinese for the enterprise we see no barrier to the raising of this sum. If the comparatively few who heartily sympathize with the movement of the Y.M.C.A. could collect nearly fifty thousand dollars within a few weeks, there should be no difficulty in getting ten times this sum from the rich Chinese of the Colony, and from those of their emigrants, who have amassed big fortunes in Foreign Settlements.

CHINA AND CONFUCIANISM.

THERE WAS recently convened, we believe, in Hongkong an influential meeting of Chinese to discuss the advisability of building a big Confucian temple, or assembly hall to the honour of the Sage. The meeting was largely attended and what is more noteworthy, was attended by business people. Until recently, merchants took but little practical interest in what appertained to Confucius, regarding him as the almost exclusive property of the literati, who revered him and drew their inspiration from his works. Now, however, during the recent controversies that have been raging, business people have come forward, and seem as eager as scholars to do honour to their ideal. Here we see evidence of a great change that has come over the face of the Chinese community. But more in this. When some scholars

Charge Against Chinese Pressman.

At the Criminal Sessions this morning before Sir William Rees Davies, K.C., Chief Justice, Chan Chung Shan, a member of the staff of the Chinese newspaper "Shat Po," published in the city, was indicted for publishing on August 14 last in his newspaper matter likely to incite people to disorder in China.

The Attorney-General, Hon. Mr. J. A. S. Bucknill, K.C., prosecuted for the Crown upon the instruction of the Crown Solicitor, Mr. P. M. Hodgson, and Mr. F. C. Jenkins, instructed by Mr. F. X. D'Almeida e Castro, defended. The following jury was sworn: Messrs. R. Toster (foreman), A. W. Smith, J. Nelson, F. J. Steinhof, A. O. Baradras, J. D. Gutierrez, and E. E. Gutierrez. Mr. J. O. Sheppard was called but was excused from attendance till Wednesday on the ground that being employed in a shipping office his services were urgently required to get off a ship which is sailing to-morrow.

Addressing the jury on behalf of the Crown, the Attorney-General expressed his belief in the liberty of the Press, but said there were limits beyond which it should not go, especially in a colony like this, deeply situated as it was to a country which had passed through many vicissitudes. With the view to exercising control over newspapers and other publications a law, which was not familiar to persons not engaged in newspaper work in Hongkong. The Attorney-General referred to No. 15 of 1907, the object of which was "To prevent the publication in the Colony of matter calculated to disturb the peace in China," by prohibiting the publication of such matter calculated to excite dissension.

The accused man, the Attorney-General continued, at the time the article complained of appeared in the "Shat Po," on August 14, was in charge of that paper; that would be conclusively proved by the evidence. A translation of the article, which was directed against Yuan Shih Kai (whom the writer called a brigand) and against all his followers, was read to the jury, who were also supplied with copies of it. In praise of the Press, the Attorney-General said, he would state that this was the first time it had been found necessary to put this somewhat unusual law into force. He pointed out that the article not only made a personal attack upon the President, but also attempted to enlist support for the second Revolution, which had just been subdued, and written at a very critical time, was likely to incite tumult. It was wrong that a person in this Colony of a State whose relations to China were so friendly should print such scurrilous stuff, which was likely to be read by hundreds of ignorant Chinese in the Colony and neighbouring Chinese territory, raising false hopes, and ideas of revolution.

Mr. Jenkins raised objection to the procedure of the prosecution under the form of indictment. He contended that it was really a prosecution for seditious libel, and

GREAT SPEECH BY MR. CHURCHILL.

THE QUESTION OF ARMAMENTS.

THE "HOLIDAY" AGAIN PROPOSED.
ARMAMENT FIRMS' SERVANTS:
NOT MASTERS.

LONDON, Oct. 19.

Mr. Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, delivered an important speech on the Navy at Manchester. He began by expressing on behalf of the Admiralty and the Navy their keen sorrow at the Zepplin disaster, and then proceeded to comment on the disquietude caused by the expenditure on Naval armaments, which was much higher now than ever, while next year it would be higher still. The intention of the Admiralty was to keep within the narrowest limits the misdirection of human energy involved in this and other countries by the preparations for war, but if the existing burdens were to be relieved it must be by international agreement. Our relations with Germany had greatly improved, without the loss of our friendships with other countries, and the moment, therefore, ought not to be unfavourable for our taking up the friendly reference to the question of a Naval holiday which is to be found in the German Chancellor's speech. We seem to have reached a point where the relations of the Great Powers, however amicable they may have become, produce no effect on warlike preparations.

AN OFFER TO GERMANY.

Mr. Churchill continued:—"The proposal which I put forward in the name of His Majesty's Government is quite simple. It is that, apart from the Canadian ships or their equivalent, and apart from anything that may be required by new developments, we should lay down four great ships to Germany's use. Now we say, while there is plenty of time, in all friendship and sincerity to our great neighbour, Germany:—"If you postpone beginning your two ships for twelve months we will postpone the beginning of our four ships in absolutely good faith for exactly the same period." (Cheers.) That would mean a complete holiday for one year. This holiday would be, as far as the big ships are concerned, between Great Britain and Germany, and would mean a saving of nearly £5,000,000 to Germany and nearly £12,000,000 to Great Britain, while the relative strengths of the two countries would be absolutely unchanged. It would not be possible to stand still for a whole year unless the other Powers could be persuaded to do likewise. But suppose Germany and Great Britain took the lead in approaching the other great European Powers, there should be good prospects of success. If Austria and Italy do not build, the obligation would be removed from France and Great Britain, and the fact that the Triplets was building no ships would make this proposal possible without the slightest danger or risk. Was it not likely that so great and memorable an event would also produce an effect on Naval construction in the United States and Japan?"

"By such a policy," continued Mr. Churchill, "a vast treasure of scores of millions would be rescued for the progress of mankind. Even if the policy failed, they would have made an impression on the minds of Europe which would be wholly beneficial, and could not fail to produce fruits in future years. That is the proposal I make for 1914, or, if 1914 be considered too near, then I make it for 1915. I am quite impervious to the objections which will no doubt be raised by the great armament firms in this and other countries, but they must be servants, not masters. Some will blame me for the proposals, but let them mock! I am convinced it is necessary for the welfare—even for the endurance—of our civilisation, and the structure of society in Europe, that this question of armaments shall be discussed openly, not only by diplomats and Governments, but by the Parliaments and the peoples."

THE HOME RULE QUESTION.

Referring to the Home Rule question, Mr. Churchill said he had nothing to withdraw from his speech at Dundee. The two great parties had been brought near together on the subject of Ireland. This profound evolution of thought had received striking illustration during the last few weeks. They had a great responsibility towards Ireland, and they would progress much faster toward a settlement if, as Liberals, they cultivated a habit of considering the legitimate wishes of the Ulster Protestants, and if the Conservatives turned their minds increasingly to the problem of satisfying the rights of the overwhelming mass of Nationalists. That was why the Government had been patient regarding the events in the North of Ireland, and that was why they welcomed any disposition on the part of their opponents to approach a settlement.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S LAND CAMPAIGN.

"CONSIDERABLE OPPOSITION" IN THE CABINET.

LONDON, Oct. 19.
Reynolds' Newspaper states that three Cabinet meetings which were held last week were devoted entirely to the consideration of Mr. Lloyd George's land policy. There is some reason for believing that Mr. Lloyd George met with considerable opposition from an unexpected quarter, a fact which appears to justify the Chancellor's private view that for an effective land campaign he should be untrammelled with the responsibility of a ministerial position.

AUSTRIA'S ATTITUDE.

LONDON, Oct. 19.
Reuter's Vienna correspondent states that the Austro-Hungarian Charge d'Affaires at Belgrade has been instructed to inform Serbia in the most emphatic diplomatic form that the Serbian troops must immediately vacate Albania.

Germany has also made emphatic representations to Serbia to withdraw her troops from Albania immediately.

THE "ZEPPELIN" DISASTER.

THE OFFICIAL REPORT.

LONDON, Oct. 19.
The official account says that the disaster was apparently due to an outbreak of fire in the engine car. The vessel was being put through an altitude test; hence the heavy passenger load. There were three explosions, and their force was such that they shattered the windows in the streets, and people in the houses were thrown from their chairs.

The death roll includes a naval captain, two commanders, a naval engineer, three engineer-secretaries, two constructing engineers, and the pilot. The remainder were a party of officers. This is the tenth Zeppelin airship which has ended its career with disaster, but the death roll in this instance is heavier in comparison. The L2, which had been specially constructed for sea flight—her radius of action extending beyond the North Sea—cost one million marks.

MRS. PANKHURST AT NEW YORK.

REFUSED ADMITTANCE TO UNITED STATES.

New York, Oct. 19.
When Mrs. Pankhurst arrived from France she was questioned by the immigration authorities, and it was subsequently decided to exclude her from America. The suffragette leader has appealed to Washington.

Possible Detention as an "Undesirable Alien."

The announcement that Mrs. Pankhurst will visit the United States this month for a lecture tour, telegraphs the New York correspondent of the "Daily Mail" was received with mixed feelings, with apparently the certainty that the welcome awaiting her will be largely confined to the extreme section of the Suffragists, headed by Mrs. O. P. Belmont.

The Anti-Suffragists would not be loath to find an adequate cause to detain her at the immigration station at Ellis Island. One of their leaders, Mrs. William F. Scott, says: "The visit will arouse all the most dangerous and most lawless women in the movement here. We have competent men who can enforce the immigration laws, and it would seem from Mrs. Pankhurst's police record that she is an undesirable alien."

The "New York Times," remarking "she has left her country for her country's good," says that American women who join in giving her a banquet of welcome will be lowering themselves. The newspaper thinks her detention at Ellis Island would be quite as justifiable as that of the fugitive ex-President, Castro of Venezuela, and, though it would raise a storm of protests, is not sure that subsequent deportation would not be in the end the approval of the same part of the community.

Lord Alverstone's successor is the second son of the late Joseph M. Isaacs, a City of London merchant. Sir Rufus Isaacs was born in London in 1860; became a K.C. in 1898, and represented Reading as a Liberal since 1904. He was appointed Solicitor General in 1910, Attorney General in the same year, and has been an unofficial member of the Cabinet since 1912. Early in life he engaged successfully in stock exchange business in the City. Recently, along with Mr. Lloyd George, aspersions were cast by political opponents against certain private transactions he had engaged in in Marconi shares, and considerable controversy had since been indulged in as to his suitability as Lord Alverstone's successor.

CHINESE NEWS.

PEKING, Oct. 20.
The Minister of Industries and Commerce has recommended that Chan Hung Nam and Luk Yu Yan, two big merchants in the Straits, be complimented for having refused to render assistance to the rebels.

The Government intends to borrow a loan of $50,000,000 for the redemption of the paper currency of all the provinces beginning with the north and gradually coming down to the south. Lan Kuen Heng, Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese squadrons, has been ordered to Foochow. His sole duty is to disband troops.

The expiration of the ten years' tariff is near at hand, and the Foreign Department is endeavouring to negotiate with the foreign Ministers with a view to increasing the duty from 5 per cent to 7 1/2 per cent. If this is done there will be an increase in the revenue of the 12,000,000. The Industries and Commerce Department proposes to abolish the Likin duty, and render all the duties in the provinces equal to each other. The State Department has drawn up a Bill to provide that all law officials shall not hold offices within three hundred of their native countries. Nine persons have been arrested by the Governor of the Hoochin province. From a confession they made it appears that they were authorised by Sun Yat Sen and Wang Hing to advise the President by digging tunnels to his residence, or by aeroplane. All the men were shot after being tried.

Several new features are included in the passenger accommodation.

The new boat, which is on her maiden trip to Europe, is the first of two sister ships ordered for the company's European service, and was built at the Mitsui Bishi yard at Nagasaki. Of steel construction, with double bottom, she is 510 feet in length, with a beam of 61 feet and depth of 38 feet 3 inches; the gross tonnage being 10,400 tons. She is fitted with a combined installation of two sets of triple expansion engines and one set of low pressure turbines, working triple screws, and at her trials developed the high speed of 17 1/2 knots. Accommodation is provided for 112 first class, 56 second class and 178 stowage passengers, the cabins and rooms throughout being very comfortable. There is provided in addition to the ordinary accommodation a social hall, drawing room and children's room, barber's salon, electric fans are freely used all over the ship. A special feature has been made of first class one-berthed state rooms, and second class two-berthed cabins.

The cargo capacity of the vessel is 12,342 tons of 40 cubic feet and the derricks will deal with weights up to 40 tons.

Invitations are out for a reception to be held on the new boat to-morrow afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. Invited guests are requested to take their invitation cards, which will be collected by an officer on the gangway.

A HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

A case of highway robbery has been reported by the Chinese caretaker of the Chinese Mission Chapel at Bridges Street. The man told the Kowloon City police that while he was walking from Yau-mai to Kowloon City, and when crossing Ma To Rok bridge, three Indians passed him and then suddenly turned upon him. They dragged him into a field, and after gagging him and tying him up, they stole 97 from his pocket. One of the men had a knife. The caretaker states that one of his assistants made off in the direction of Ma To Rok village.

DIPHTHERIA—HOW IT MAY BE AVOIDED.

DIPHTHERIA is usually contracted when the child has a cold. The cold prepares the child's system for the reception and development of the diphtheria germ. When there are cases of diphtheria in the neighbourhood children that have colds should be kept at home and off the streets until recovered. Give them a hot bath, a hot drink, and if they will not swallow a Douch. Remedy and they will have to remain at home long. It is also plain that the child's body, which forms a shield against the germ, is a cold, and diminishes the risk of contracting infectious diseases. For sale by all Chemists and Dispensaries.
